A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SOUTH CAROLINA IMPRINTS 1731-1740

TWO HUNDRED COPIES REPRINTED FROM THE SOUTH CAROLINA HISTORICAL AND
GENEALOGICAL MAGAZINE OF JULY 1933,
VOL. XXXIV, P. 117-137.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SOUTH CAROLINA IMPRINTS 1731-1740

The aim of the following pages is simply to record the output of the Charles Town press, other than newspapers, during the first ten years of its activity. Of the forty-two titles, twenty-two are listed with the notation "no copy known," which simply means that a fairly diligent search has failed to discover any extant copies, although contemporary evidence shows that they were actually printed. Two others (Nos. 31 and 41) are presumed to be still in existence, although copies of them have not been located.

Of outstanding interest is No. 2 of the list, bearing the imprint of George Webb. This printer has hitherto been a somewhat shadowy figure, and it is a pleasure to be able to record an actual specimen of his work at Charles Town.

At some future time, I hope, there will be an opportunity to publish a comprehensive and detailed study of the first Charles Town printers and their work, for which I have already collected and prepared a considerable body of material. A summary of this material appears in the March, 1933, issue of the Transactions of the Bibliographical Society (The Library), of London.

The purposes of publishing the present record will be achieved if it aids in the discovery of copies of any of the titles listed as not now known or of any titles not here listed. Information of the location of copies other than those located herein will be welcomed.

By His EXCELLENCY;

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS I have thought fit (by and with the Advice of His Majesty's Council) to dispose of His Majesty's Lands, not yet purchased, to such Persons as are willing to take out Grants for the same, and to cultivate and improve it as His Majesty directs:

AND WHEREAS several Persons have heretofore received Deputations from former Surveyors General, to run out and admeasure Lands, which Deputations being now superceded by His Majesty's Commission, appointing James St. John, Esq; Surveyor General of this Province; I HAVE therefore thought fit (by and with the Advice of His Majesty's Council) to issue this my Proclamation, strictly forbidding any Person whatsoever to survey or admeasure any of His Majesty's Lands in this Province, until he have a Warrant from me for so doing; and that he has received a Deputation and Power from His Majesty's said Surveyor General, to act under him as His Deputy; and not presume to sign or return any Certificates of Lands by them run out or admeasured, for which they had not legal Warrants from me, as they shall answer the contrary at their Peril. And the said James St. John, Esq; being also His Majesty's Auditor and Comptroller of his Revenues in this Province, all Persons concerned are to take Notice thereof, and that the said Auditor and Comptroller is ready to enter all Grants and Conveyances for Land, pursuant to an Act of Assembly past for that Purpose this present Sessions of the General Assembly, upon Application made to him at his Office in Charles-Town

AND WHEREAS His Majesty has impowered and directed me to dispose of his Lands in this Province not yet granted or purchased, under several Rules and Restrictions: And I thinking it for His Majesty's Service, and that of this his Province, that the said Lands should be disposed of for the better strengthening and settling the same, and for encouraging New Comers,

A printed form for the grant of land, with blank spaces for names, descriptions, dates, etc.

The typography resembles that of the broadside of November 27, 1731, which has the imprint of Thomas Whitmarsh, and obviously differs from that of the Council minutes issued November 4th with the imprint of George Webb. The printing is therefore assumed to be that of Whitmarsh. As the surveying and granting of public lands was evidently an urgent matter in South Carolina at the end of 1731, it is also assumed that this blank form was printed at about the time that the surveys of the public lands were authorized, or at some time in November or December, 1731.

[A Dialogue between a Subscriber and a Nonsubscriber. Hebr. xi, 6. But without Faith it is impossible to please Him. The Second Edition. Charlestown: Thomas Whitmarsh, 1732.] [5]

No copy known. Advertised ("Price 5s.") in The South-Carolina Gazette of January 15, 1732, and the following issue. Again advertised, under the heading "Just Published," in the Gazette of April 29, 1732.

No American first edition of this has been found in any bibliographies consulted.

[Proposals for the Opening of an Insurance Office against Fire. Charlestown: Thomas Whitmarsh ? 1732.] [6]

No copy known. In The South-Carolina Gazette of January 22, 1732, was printed an advertisement of a meeting of freeholders held at the house of Henry Gignilliat on the 18th when proposals were made for the opening of an "Insurance Office against Fire: which will be printed and given Gratis at the aforesaid House, on Monday in the afternoon, for the Perusal and Consideration of all Persons concerned."

[The Quit-Rent Roll Law. Charlestown: Eleazer Phillips, Jr., 1732.] [7]

No copy known. Copy for this law was given to Phillips by an executive order dated February 11, 1732, "in order that it may be Printed and made more Publick." The fact that the law was actually printed is further attested by mention of it in the stock of Eleazer Phillips, senior, in his notice of intention to "depart the Province" published in The South-Carolina Gazette of April 5, 1735.

[South-Carolina Almanack for the Year 1733. Charlestown: Thomas Whitmarsh, 1733.] [8]

It was first announced in the Gazette of March 31, 1733, as "Now in Press, and will be published with all convenient Speed." No copy known. Advertised in The South-Carolina Gazette of August 11, 1733: "In convenient Time will be Published, Or, to be Honest, Reprinted . . . " But the publication of the Gazette was suspended with the issue of September 8, 1733, and Thomas Whitmarsh died a very short time thereafter; it is uncertain, therefore, whether the printing of this tract was completed before the operation of the printing office ceased. There was no mention of it in any subsequent issue of the Gazette, and the title does not appear in the list of Whitmarsh books taken over by Lewis Timothy.

No advertisement or other mention of this was found in any contemporary issues of The South-Carolina Gazette. No copy known. Advertised in The South-Carolina Gazette of September 14, 1738, as "Just Published."

It was this pamphlet, apparently, that started the controversy in print between James Killpatrick and Thomas Dale.

[The Letter of Laicus. Charles-Town: Printed by Lewis Timothy, 1738.] [29]

No copy known. A communication on the subject of inoculation for smallpox, printed in September 1738, according to the following from The South-Carolina Gazette of September 14, 1738: "Two letters, one sign'd Laicus and the other from Philirenus are come to Hand; but as there is a fresh supply of foreign News, and the Generality of my Customers shew a Dislike to have any more of Inoculation in the Gazette, the Letter of Laicus will be published next week by itself, and may then be had of the Printer thereof."

[The Case of Miss Mary Roche, more fairly related, &c. By Thomas Dale, M.D. Charles-Town: Printed by Lewis Timothy, 1738.] [30]

No copy known. Announced in The South-Carolina Gazette of October 19, 1738: "On Saturday next will be published . . . " This was first mentioned in the Gazette of September 21st: "In a few Days will be published . . . " But the issue of October 12th explained that "the Publication hereof has been long delayed, by reason of Sickness, myself and Son having been visited with this Fever, that reigns at present, so that neither of us hath been capable for some time of working much at the Press." There was no issue of the Gazette on October 26th, "by reason of Sickness," but the paper appeared again on November 2, and this pamphlet probably appeared at about that time. It is certain that it was actually issued, for a reply to it was published early in 1739 (see No. 32, below).

Advertised in The South-Carolina Gazette of February 1, 1739, immediately following the advertisement of Killpatrick's A Full and Clear Reply: "At the same time will be published by Way of Answer . . . " Also in the Gazette of May 19, 1739 (with Killpatrick's Full and Clear Reply): "Just publish'd, Skimmington's Crudities, &c. Is the Puff shrunk to this ? Parturiunt Montes, &c."

Acts | Passed by the | General Assembly | of | South-Carolina, | At a Sessions begun and holden at | Charles-Town, on Tuesday the Tenth of November in the | Year of our Lord, One Thousand, Seven Hundred and Thirty- | six, and in the Tenth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord | George II. by the Grace of God of Great-Britain, | France & Ireland King, Defender of the Faith, &c. | And from thence continued by divers Prorogations and Adjournments | to the Twenty-fifth Day of March, Anno Domini, 1738. | [Rule] | [Royal arms] | [Rule] | Charles-Town, | [Rule] | Printed by Lewis Timothy, M, DCC, XXXVIII. | [1739 ?] [34]

18 x 29.5 cm. 144 p.

Whether the Acts to March 25, 1738, were actually published separately in that year is not known. No mention of their publication has been found in The South-Carolina Gazette. The volume here described continues the Acts down to April 11, 1739; it, too, is not mentioned in the Gazette.

The Acts to March 25, 1738, end on p. 104 (verso of folio Cc[2]). On p. 105 (first page of signature Dd) begins "An Act for the further security and better defence of this province," dated September 18, 1738. The last act in the volume, dated April 11, 1739, is followed by a page containing a "Table," or index covering the entire volume from p. 3 to p. 137.

However much of the volume (including the title page) may have been printed with the intention of publication in 1738, it seems clear that the sheets were held and the work not actually issued until the acts for another year had been included.
